

My Name is Sade and I am Deputy Head Girl at JRCS.

Competitive spirit and determination have always been strong characteristics of me. When told I can't, I make sure I can and when challenged or threatened I push harder when I feel passionate.

While being interested by performing arts particularly dance, I also enjoy academic subjects such as all the cores and geography which I feel is important because it's nice to be well rounded and have many backups. I like taking risks but education isn't something worth risking.

Traveling is a passion of mine. Wining "work the world" has been my greatest achievement to date. My work experience opportunity took place in Canada, one of the happiest communities in the world. I went with the hope of bringing some Canadian ethic back to our school community, so we can work better to help each other ensure that the best environment is created where we have all the tools to excel. I have built up my confidence and public speaking has become easier for me. My trip inspired me to make a contribution to literacy in third world countries because it is important to me that everyone has equal opportunities reflective of the ones here at Jo Richardson.

Year seven to year eleven for me has been a huge transformation in terms of my attitude, confidence and appearance by far!! If I could give one piece of advice to every student in our school community, it would be to go for every opportunity offered to you because everything really is accessible to everyone regardless. If worked hard enough on and wanted badly enough, there is nothing you can think of that can't be done.
