

Black Lives Matter Movement Sports Edition

Teams and Athletes uniting for a cause

- Manchester United and England forward Marcus Rashford has helped to raise £20m to help supply 3 million meals to children
- He also began a campaign to help the homeless
- He has persuaded the Government to make a u-turn to provide free school meals
- 45% of BME children live in poverty

Racism in Sport

- There have been many examples of England players suffering racial abuse when playing away games.
- Players like Raheem Sterling have been subjected to racism many times and not just in mainland Europe, but here in the UK.

Sports and Politics

The history behind activism has been around for many decades. And it's not just Male athletes who use their platform to highlight issues of race relations. Female athletes like Megan Rapinoe have taken a stand in the fight for justice
